

Horowhenua Kapiti Rugby Union – Numbering Representative Players

Researched and compiled by Clive Akers

Establishing the order of numbering.

Qualifying fixtures: Only approved first-class games are considered. Early season representative games not given first-class status are excluded.

Horowhenua club players included in any combined unions' team are included. This applies mainly to the 25 Manawatu-Horowhenua selections which played, mainly against touring overseas teams between 1908 and 1977. Also includes the 58 games played between 1925 and 1932 when Manawatu and Horowhenua unions combined to field representative teams often known as Manawhenua.

Horowhenua Invitation XVs 1984-1993. During this period nine annual early-season first-class games were played against Wellington. In each game Horowhenua fielded one, two, or three, invited guest players from outside the union. The Horowhenua club players are included in the numbering but not the guest players.

When more than one player makes his debut in the start fifteen in a game the players are numbered alphabetically by surname (eg the fifteen who debuted in the first game in 1899 are numbered alphabetically).

Substitutes:

A player who makes his debut as a temporary or permanent substitute during a game is numbered after any player who debuted as a start player in the game. Prior to 2010 team managers' official match reports did not record the time of each replacement during a game. In games when more than one player made his debut off the bench we have no choice but to number them alphabetically as there is no record of which player entered play first. However, since 2010 the time each substitution is made has been recorded enabling debut players off the bench to be numbered in correct sequence. Only players who have taken the field in a first-class game have been considered.
